Be A Big Brother

Program Offers Possibilities

by J. T. McMillin

Have you ever thought of visiting new and exciting countries? How would you like to learn of the customs, the geography, and the people of the Philippines, India, France, Germany, Egypt, and many other nations?

You can, you know and the price is only a few sips of the milk of human kindness. By being a "big brother" or a "big sister" to one of the foreign students who will arrive on this campus for the first time next fall, you will be able to learn from a first-hand source about a country which you may have wanted to visit for as long as you can remember.

At the same time, you will be making it that much easier to make that visit in person. There are a number of exchange programs presently in operation. Their continuance and expansion are dependent upon their present success or lack of success, and you will contribute to their success by being "big brother."

As a "big brother" you will be expected to write during the summer to your "little brother," telling him what to expect when he arrives and exchanging such personal information as will lay the groundwork for friendship. When school starts next fall you will be expected to take him under your wing and show him how things are done here. Tell him and show him about fraternities and sororities, dating and all the other things which he will need to know.

Anyone interested in becoming a "big brother" or a "big sister" may pick up information blanks in the Activities center. You should give your present and summer addresses, phone numbers, and reasons why you would like to be a "big sister or a "big brother."

Be sure to list countries you would like the student to be from in order of preference, because it is intended that students have as wide a choice as possible. The address and name of your "little brother" will be sent to you during the summer.

Opinions Given On Finals Change

by Peggy Barnard

With final week almost here, the question, "Is final week being used to the best advantage or should it be changed or eliminated?" was asked of cross section of CSU students.

Margarete Nielsen, freshman Medical Technology major, responded, "It should be changed but not eliminated because classes wouldn't be crowded with so much material at the end of the quarter."

After four years of final examinations, a senior Horticulture major, Donna Younger expresses that, to the advantage of CSU students, several committees be selected to survey and study other campus' policies for their final week program. Donna suggested several faculty members serve on these committees and work along with the students.

Sherry Young feels that final week should be eliminated because "students have tests in the week preceding final week plus final examinations." Sherry is a sophomore majoring in Occupational therapy.

"As long as finals continue to count a major portion of class grades, as they do at present, then I feel students should be given added time to study for them," states J. T. McMillin, junior Animal Production major. He added that if the final week program was changed so classes were held the last week, professors should schedule their finals so they don't all fall the last two or three days of the week.

A sophomore sociology major, Cathy Connell, says "teachers lose time during final week because they don't have scheduled classes."

Edith Carson, a sophomore majoring in secretarial training, feels if final week is changed "students wouldn't have time to study properly." She states a large number of the finals, at present, are more of a review test than a thorough final examination of the quarter's work.

Junior Class Will Select Queen For Friday's Prom

Stan Kenton, "Modern America's Man of Music," and his orchestra with seventeen of the world's most outstanding instrumentalists will supply music for the all-school Junior prom Friday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Large ballroom.

A Prom queen will be crowned for the first time this year from candidates Bonnie Austin, Jacci Carlan, Pat Harper, Nadine Hough, Maurene Powell, and Marlene Uhrich. Selected on qualifications of beauty, poise, scholarship, personality, and activities, a queen will be chosen Wednesday to reign over the prom by members of the Junior class. Polls will be set up in the Union all day tomorrow so that all Juniors will have an opportunity to vote.

Candidate for queen, Bonnie Austin, is a junior from Brighton majoring in Home Economics education. Haylofters Exhibition team and society editor for the Collegian are among her activities. She is also publicity chairman for the Junior prom.

Jacci Carlan, junior from Englewood, is majoring in Secretarial training.

Pat Harper, active in Livestock club, Silver Spruce, and queen chairman for Junior prom, is a Bacteriology major from Denver.

Nadine Hough, junior transfer from Colorado Woman's college, is majoring in Humanities. Nadine is from Parker, Colo., and is president of her sorority and a recently tapped Aggie Angel.

Maurine Powell is a junior sociology major from Morrison. President of her sorority, she is also president of Lambda Iota Tau, a member of Liberal party and a newly tapped Aggie Angel.

Marlene Uhrich, an English major from Fort Collins, as president of Panhellenic council a member of Lambda Iota Tau, and member of Tau Iota Omega.

Contest Featured For Dancing Class

A Jitterbug contest will highlight an evening of dancing Wednesday when the Union's dancing classes will present their all-school dancing party. The party will begin at 9 p.m. in the Cave, and dancing will continue until 12 p.m. Cost of the dance will be fifty cents a couple, and fifty cents registration fee will be made to those desiring to enter the jitterbug contest. Dance class students may pick up their tickets free of charge at the Activities center today or tomorrow, and others may purchase their tickets there or from Jim Deidre.

"Jitterbug contest will include all types and variations of jitterbug," informed Dick Shen, one of the dance instructors. This will include bop, jump n' jive and rock and roll. All students are invited to try out in the contest. A trophy will be given to the winning contestants.

Featured during the intermission of the dance will be an exhibition dance by instructors Dick Shen and Christine Seger. The exhibition may be calypso or Harlem jitterbug.

Students desiring to enter the contest should register in the Activities center. The dance will be open to the public and spectators are welcome to attend the exhibition and contests.

The Prom, which is semi-formal will be decorated to bring out the theme "Bewitched." Tickets on sale for $3, may be obtained now in the Student Union office and will be sold through Friday.

Stan Kenton and his orchestra have won innumerable popularity Year, and were named top band of Year, and ere named top band of the year by Billboard magazine five consecutive years.

Applications Are Due For Leadership Group

Applications for Central committee for Fall Leadership conference may still be turned into the Activities center, announced Kay Slininger, chairman for the conference.

The deadline for application is tomorrow, May 29, so all interested in the positions of assistant chairman, finance chairman, publicity chairman, secretary, or housing chairman should turn in their applications as soon as possible.

Applicants should include their name, telephone number and three of their major activities on application forms. Interviews will be held for those turning in applications. The conference is scheduled for the first part of November.

A GLASS OF MILK, A SLIDE RULE, AND THOU, makes for an enchanting evening of studying, as a typical CSU student prepares for the last Final week of the year.

CRAMMING FOR FINALS is the occupation of many Green hall girls as they mix the more pleasant pastime of sunbathing, with the more serious study of chemistry, history and courtship and marriage.
